

Four Moves, Many Safe Choices

Sort the choices first. Then build a safe route. Nobody reenacts the harm.

FICTIONAL SCENARIO

During group work, one student makes fun of another student's name. A few students laugh or go quiet. Name only what happened; do not add details.

STEP 1 - SORT each numbered card under INTERRUPT, SUPPORT, REPORT, or REPAIR.

1. THAT'S NOT OKAY.

Say it clearly and briefly.

2. NAMES DESERVE RESPECT.

Stop the comment without debating.

3. WANT TO SIT OR WORK WITH ME?

Offer support; let the person choose.

4. ARE YOU OKAY? WHAT DO YOU NEED?

Listen without asking the person to teach.

5. TELL A TRUSTED ADULT.

Get adult help and follow-through.

6. WRITE FACTS FOR AN ADULT.

Note who, what, when, where, and witnesses. Keep it private.

7. CHANGE THE BEHAVIOUR.

Repair means behaviour changes; an apology alone is not enough.

8. ADULTS CHECK BACK.

Follow up privately and monitor the change.

STEP 2 - BUILD A SAFE ROUTE

Use move names or card numbers. More than one safe route can work.

If INTERRUPT feels unsafe, start with SUPPORT or REPORT. Adults follow up.

My Pocket Response Guide

Choose words and actions you can use. You do not have to confront alone.

USE A SAFE SEQUENCE

Interrupt only if safe. Support, report facts privately, then follow through.

INTERRUPT

One short sentence - only if it feels safe:

*Try: 'That's not okay.' or
'Names deserve respect.'*

SUPPORT

A consent-based offer that lets the person choose:

Try: 'Want to sit or work with me?' or 'I can go with you.'

REPORT

Trusted adult + facts to tell privately:

ADULT / PLACE: _____

Who was involved? _____

What happened? _____

When and where? _____

Who saw or heard it? _____

Keep notes private. Do not post or share them.

REPAIR

Behaviour change + adult follow-up + harmed student's choice:

What behaviour must stop or change?

Which adult will follow up, and when?

The harmed student chooses whether to explain, accept an apology, or join a repair conversation. They may say no.

Teach It From the Hub

Exact Hub screen map, timing, and copy counts for the Four Moves lesson.

COPY + PREP

Page 1: 1 per group (scissors optional). Page 2: 1 per student. Pages 3-4: keep 1 teacher copy. Pre-fill two real school adults or help locations. No role-play is needed.

1 OPEN: Responding to racism -> Four Moves lesson

HUB SCREEN	TIME	TEACHER MOVE	STUDENT PAPER
NOTICE	4 min	Project and read the fictional name scenario. State only what happened.	None - discuss from screen.
SAFETY	7 min	Ask which move is safe and useful. Nobody must confront alone.	None - discuss from screen.
SEQUENCE	10 min	Page 1: SORT FIRST. Then choose a safe order; more than one route may work.	Page 1 - one per group.
MAKE	15 min	Model one safe sentence and the facts an adult needs.	Page 2 - one per student.
KNOW	5 min	Define repair: change + adult follow-up + harmed student's choice.	Screen + Page 2 REPAIR box.

60-SECOND MODEL

Read Card 1. Say: 'I can use a short sentence only if it feels safe. If not, I can support the person and get adult help.' Then model reporting facts: what happened, when, where, and who saw or heard it.

DEBRIEF

Which move could come first here? Which choices keep people safe? What must adults do next? How will we know the behaviour really changed?

COLLECT

A safe Four Moves route and a completed Pocket Response Guide.

Answer Key, Care + Follow-Through

Repair requires changed behaviour, adult follow-up, and student choice.

SORTING KEY

INTERRUPT: 1, 2 SUPPORT: 3, 4 REPORT: 5, 6 REPAIR: 7, 8. Accept another placement only when students give a safety-based reason.

SAFE ROUTES

If safe: INTERRUPT -> SUPPORT -> REPORT
-> REPAIR.

If interrupting feels unsafe: SUPPORT ->
REPORT -> REPAIR.

The sequence can change, but reporting and adult follow-through must not disappear.

WHAT REPAIR MEANS

The harmful behaviour stops and changes.

An adult checks back privately and monitors the change.

The student who was harmed decides whether to explain, accept an apology, or join a repair conversation. They may say no.

CARE

Students may pass and use a private check-in. Do not invite public disclosures, ask the targeted student to educate others, require repair from the harmed student, or turn a live incident into class debate. Follow school and district procedures for real concerns.
