

Belonging & Learner Voice

Five flexible graphic organizers

Use one page or the whole set, in any order. Learners may write, draw, colour, dictate, use symbols, or work with a trusted partner. These pages support conversation and planning; they are not assessments or diagnoses.

CHOOSE A STARTING POINT

- Identity Constellation - identity and belonging
- How I Learn Best - access and learning preferences
- Ideal Learning Space - inclusive environments
- Build a Better Community - voice and agency
- Learning Quest Map - goals, strengths, and support

MAKE PARTICIPATION FLEXIBLE

- Offer large print, a scribe, or speech-to-text.
- Welcome multilingual words, pictures, and symbols.
- Allow quiet time, movement, breaks, and extra time.
- Let learners skip a prompt or choose a general example.
- Model a fictional example before personal sharing.

PROTECT CHOICE & PRIVACY

- Students decide what to share and with whom.
- Never require disclosure of identity, diagnosis, or experience.
- Ask before displaying or copying a learner's work.
- Keep private teacher information separate from display work.
- Invite revisions; a learner profile is never fixed.

DISPLAY WITH CARE

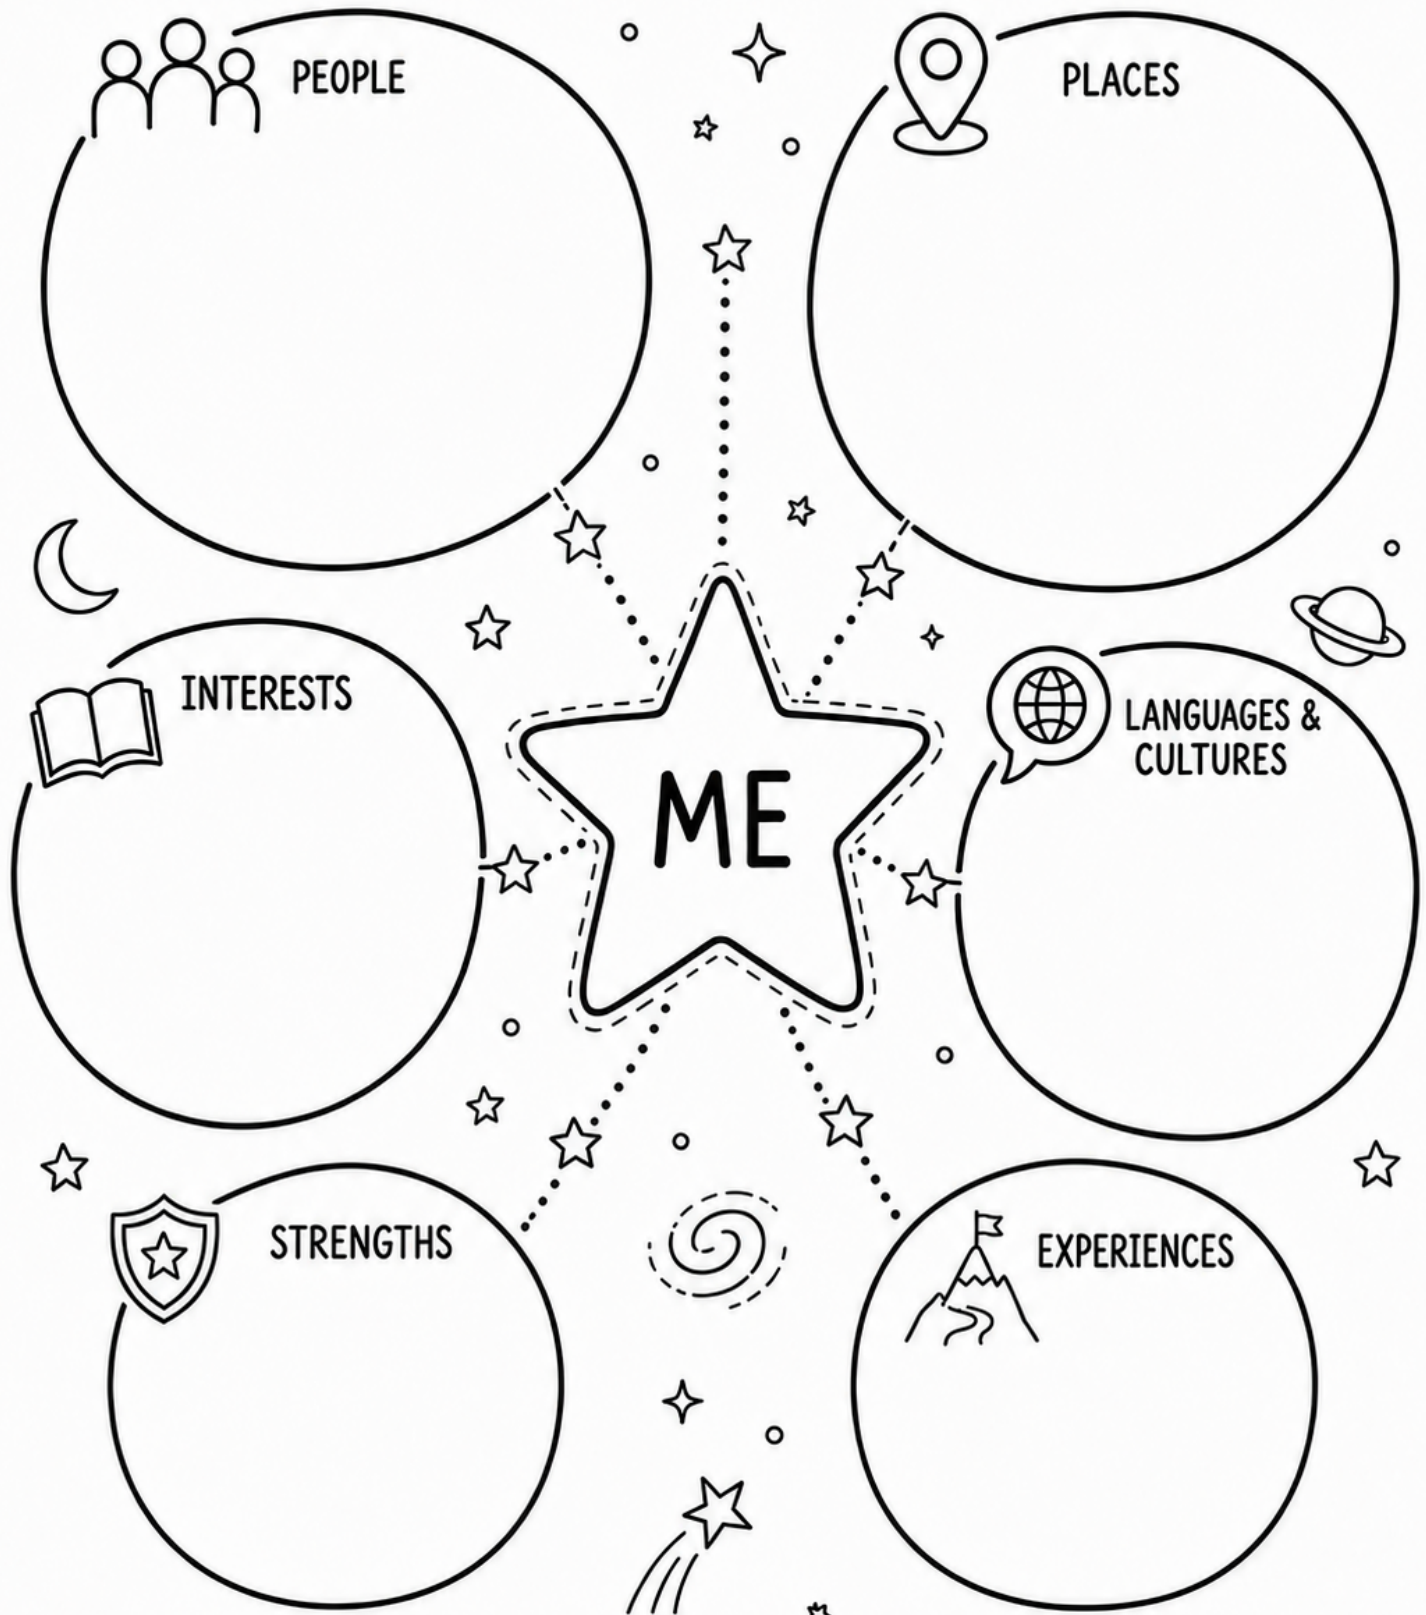

- Display only work students have chosen to make public.
- Offer an anonymous or shared class-product option.
- Combine themes instead of exposing individual needs.
- Return originals or store them securely.
- Revisit class ideas after students have tried them.
